A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

Israel and Transjordan signed an armistice agreement yesterday that United Nations Mediator Bunche called a "virtual non-aggression pact." Negotiations with Syria, last Arab state that participated in the Palestine fighting with whom no armistice has been reached, will open tomorrow.

The leader of the military coup in Syria broadcast a statement of policy, including war on communism, friendship for Lebanon and the strengthening of the Arab League.

Representatives of the United States and eleven other nations will sign the North Atlantic treaty in Washington at 3 p. m. today. President Truman will deliver an address and the ceremonies will be broadcast over the world. Russia is expected to carry her change that the pact is incompatible with the United Nations Charter to the General Assembly that resumes its sessions at Flushing Meadow tomorrow. Chinese Communists assailed the treaty and said they would fight with their "ally" Russia to "overthrow the entire imperialist system" in the event of war.

VARIETY OF EPISODES FIND WAY INTO SUITS

One Outgrowth of Repairs; Another A Trespass Action

1 "PROMOTION" CASE

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 4.—A trio of suits filed in the Court of Common Pleas have their beginning in various types of disputes.

Claiming $354.21, with interest from March 12, 1948, Paul G. and John J. McBride, trading as McBride Machine & Auto Repair, Feasterville, have named William Phillips, Lower Southampton twp., the defendant in an action in assumpsit.

The suit grows out of repairs, replacements and work done on an automobile owned by the defendant, as alleged by the plaintiff-mechanics.

Grim P. Sharp, Upper Black Eddy, has been named the defendant in an action in trespass by Jacob Hager, Bedminster, who claims $310.43.

The suit grows out of an automobile collision June 16, 1948, when Chester T. Hancy driving the plaintiff's car collided with another operated by the defendant on Ringling Rock road, East of Ferndale.

Previews Incorporated, National Real Estate Clearing House, Phila. and New York, has named Morris K. Morris and Beatrice Morris, Perkasie, RD 3, defendant in a $450 action in assumpsit suit. The suit grows out of a real estate sales promotion in New Britain township and the claim begins with March 12, 1945. The sale of 51 acres and 17 perches was involved.

A POLITICAL SPEECH

Winston Churchill will be recorded in history as one of the ablest and most eloquent statesmen of this generation.

But the talk which he made at Boston last Thursday, and which was both broadcast and televised, will never rank as one of his great addresses. It had many fine phrases, numerous quotable lines. But in the last analysis, it was simply a political speech, devoid of statesmanship, weasel-ideaed if not weasel-worded.

Under the purple patches of rhetorical showmanship, Mr. Churchill presented shabby compromises with everything he has ever stood for, and with most of the principles which made the British Empire for centuries the greatest of the world powers.

The speech was the opening gun of the so-called Conservative Party to try to recapture control of Great Britain from the Labor Party Socialists.

Sometime within the next twelve months or so, at a date which will be named to suit the strategy of the Socialists, the British people will be called upon to vote on the question of which party shall lead the nation for the next five years.

Four years ago, these same British people threw out the great leader who had inspired them to fight off defeat in the war. They threw out Churchill and his conservatives the moment the war was over, and turned themselves over to the Socialists.

That was the right of the free electorate of that great fountainhead of human freedom, the English race who invented the Magna Carta.

Churchill went down fighting for what he believed in. At the end of the election, his head was bloody but unbowed. He had "stood up."

Echoing behind him were phrases setting forth his beliefs—phrases that will ring in men's ears for generations to come. He left a legacy of eloquence and impassioned utterances. "Blood, sweat, toil and tears." "I do not propose to preside at the dismemberment of the British Empire."

It is one of the novelties of contemporary politics that Mr. Churchill, seeking a return of himself and his party to power,

LOVELIEST OF TREES

The name of Washington, the hatchet and the blossoming cherry tree will never be disassociated in American lore. Whether young Master Washington ever told a lie or not (who would put it past him that a cherry tree fell to his hatchet?) the tale as Parson Weems tells it will always be remembered.

And the District of Columbia's flowering ranks of Japanese cherry trees, blooming anew this spring, are being needled into comparable longevity by doses of a petal-saving hormone.

These trees have had a lively history. Two thousand of them were presented in 1909 by the people of Japan to the people of the United States. When fungus and insects made it necessary to destroy the first shipment in 1909, the situation had all the makings of an international incident.

But the Japanese dignitary who received the report from a nervous U. S. Embassy official took the blow smilingly. "Oh," he said, "I believe your first President set the example of destroying cherry trees!"

Japan replaced her original gift of 2,000 with 3,000 more trees, all in the best of health. This confirmed the general American feeling that Japan was a nation of friendly flower-lovers, quaint but lovable. The feeling still prevailed, more or less, in 1938 during the "China incident," when Washington clubwomen shackled themselves to the trees to keep some of them from being uprooted to landscape the site of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial.

Washington's second hatchet incident came later. Three days after Pearl Harbor a few patriots gave vent to their changed feelings toward Japan by felling some of the bare-boughed trees. Now the hatchets are buried again, and the "Loveliest of trees, the cherry now, is hung with bloom along the bough" in the nation's capital.

CHICKEN-OF-1951

It isn't only the aircraft makers who find it necessary to start designing new planes years in advance of actual production. Re-tooling, if that is the word for it, is getting under way for the Chicken-of-Tomorrow of 1951.

This year the states will hold their individual contests of breeders. Next year the regional contests will carry the competition another step forward. In 1951, somewhere in the United States, a national winner will be determined—embodying even more deluxe features, if possible, than the winner selected in the 1948 national finals in Delaware last summer.

Prof. S. E. Tomhave, head of the department of animal and poultry industry at the University of Delaware, sets forth the goal of the three-year plan! "The new bird, to grow faster, with still more meat, is being scientifically redesigned—in the same fashion that science has converted cattle, hogs and other food animals."

The fowl that won the contest last year was a Cornish-New Hampshire cross.

A Political Speech

should come to the United States for the purposes of opening his campaign. The dealings of political hands across the sea are mysterious. There seems no doubt at all that the late Harry Hopkins, protege of President Roosevelt, connived with the British Labor Party leadership for the overthrow of Churchill in the first place. Now Churchill makes his key-note address in the come-back drive at Boston—far outside the British dominions.

The compromises which Churchill made in his talk are possibly beyond the quick understanding of those who have not followed British politics.

His greatest compromise is with the "take it easy" philosophy of the Socialists in Great Britain—with the concept that it being spread so industriously there and elsewhere, that it is possible for mankind to live comfortably with no more exertion than voting himself a check from the government.

Time was when Churchill, who set forth the price of victory in war as "blood, sweat, toil and tears," openly defended the age-old gospel that "by the sweat of thy brow shall thou earn thy bread." Time was when Churchill scoffed at the "get rich quick" theories of Socialism.

What says he now? His tune has changed. These theories are too appealing for him to be willing longer to fight. Instead of the eloquent vitriol he formerly poured out on these fallacies, these doctrines now are described as "the age of the common man." He no longer opposes them—instead, he quarrels with the Socialists on the proposition that he (and Lloyd George) helped invent them!

This is a surrender of principle unworthy of the name of statesmanship. It's not even good politics. If the British people still want Socialism, if they are willing to accept closing vistas and narrowing horizons, to take starvation diet and dwindling opportunities and growing infringements on their personal freedom, in return for government doles—then they know where to get them.

Why should they turn to Churchill to get just what they already are receiving from the Labor Socialists?

The American people, from time to time in the last sixteen years, have had offered to them a watered down New Deal under a Republican label, in competition with the Democratic New Deal. But they've never "bitten." The "me too" philosophy in the fringe of the Republican party has scored no victories. The successes have been by Republicans who ran on Republicanism.

Can anyone think that the British Conservatives have a ghost of a show to defeat Socialism by becoming Socialists? Yet that is the tack which Churchill has taken.

There is another great compromise involved which does still less credit to Churchill, either as politician or statesman.

That is his implied indorsement of the pending Marshall Plan loan, a third or so of which will go to England.

Now, the fact is—and of course Churchill knows it; he has said as much in the past—that the American contributions to Great Britain are the factor which has kept Socialism in England from falling under its own weight long before this.

Twice have these American money gifts permitted the British Socialists to reduce taxes on their subjects—to eliminate, in fact, hundreds of thousands of voters from any need to pay taxes. Twice have these dollar-contributions allowed the Socialists to vastly extend the amount of "give-away" service of the government to the voting masses—first, the full completion of the Beveridge Plan, and second, the launching of "free medicine."

The third gift, now before Congress, will give the British Socialists a chance to put a new tax cut in effect, to enlarge their volume of checks being handed out to voters, perhaps to confiscate the steel industry, and to perform other vote-getting miracles—just before the approaching election.

As a politician, Churchill knows perfectly well that these American "loans" are the war chest with which the Labor Socialists are keeping themselves in power. As a statesman, he knows also that Great Britain, if it re-elects the Socialists one more time, may forever sign the doom of the British people to serfdom and poverty.

Yet the plain facts appear to be that he lacks the nerve to stand boldly on the facts and the truth. He does not say frankly that the American dollar-gifts are the worst disservice the British people ever had. He appears to have concluded that it would be inexpedient to speak against the loan. Therefore, by indirection, he speaks for it.

He glosses this compromise over with the unsupported statement that Russia would have overrun Europe and bombarded London long before this, except for fear of America's atomic bomb. This is a sensational piece of demagoguery, under the circumstances, apparently presented solely for the purpose of glossing over his own ambiguous views.

Of the real position of England in today's world, Churchill, once the greatest of realists, has not a realistic word to say.

His England is a nation lulled into indolence and a false sense of security in an insecure world; a nation whose people have been put to sleep by the comfortable theory that the labor Socialists will care for them, no matter how little exertion they put into taking care of themselves.

His people are producing less, per capita, and wasting more, per capita, than any supposedly civilized race in history. Most precious of what they are wasting is time. The clock and calendar are running against them. Drawn off the path by the follies of Socialism, they are falling behind in the race.

The Empire has been dismembered—and Churchill fails to mention the fact. Once the British were the great leaders of the earth. They fully recognized their part in carrying "the white man's burden."

But they have backed out of Greece, walked out of India, pulled out of Egypt, given up in China, dropped most of their obligations in Europe, left it to Uncle Sam to protect their interests in the Far Eastern oil territory and in the Mediterranean.

Worse, they have thrown up the sponge largely in their own island. England may be said to be the part of the world where the concept was born that masses of people can rule themselves, that governments belong to the people and not the people to the governments. It is the birthplace of freedom, in the contemporary sense of the word.

Yet the first thing the British people did, after electing the Labor Socialists, was to allow them to vote what amounts to a five-year dictatorship. The converse is that the British people let themselves be voted into five years of serfdom.

Liberties that have been more than a thousand years in the creating have been tossed negligently aside by the British people. Yet Churchill, once proud exponent of British freedom, now finds not a word to mourn their passing!

For the least worthy of all political motives—that of expediency—he lays down the proposition that he helped invent this atrocious version of streamlined feudalism now yoked upon the British neck!

Even if Churchill had a chance to be successful in his campaign for return to power, one cannot help but wonder whether victory at such a price of surrender and compromise would be worth its cost!

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Sept. 7, 1899. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger

The Pennsylvania Railroad is putting in additional water troughs at South Bristol for the use of freight engines. When this work is completed much of the blocking of the streets at the railroad crossings will be obviated.

Ebenezer Lund has sold his house on Garden street to an employee of the new Bristol Iron and Steel Co. for $850.

The new business block erected on Mill street by William E. Doron is ready for occupancy.

Frederick Stuckert, who was lately admitted to the bar, will practice his profession in Bristol, his office being with John C. Stuckert on Mill street.

The fire company will take notice that if the plug at Cedar and Penn streets should be needed it can be found covered up with a luxuriant growth of weeds.

Harry Bunting has been made leader of the M. E. Church Choir. William R. Bradfield, who has acted in that capacity for over 39 years, has resigned.

At a meeting of the teachers and officers of St. Paul's Mission Sunday School, held last Sunday afternoon, William V. Leech was elected superintendent; H.T.W. Bickel, secretary; Harvey Hotherington, assistant secretary; Mrs. Elizabeth Postwick, treasurer; and Thomas Minister, librarian.

At the regular monthly meeting of America Hose, Hook & Ladder Co., held on Tuesday evening, the following nominations were made: President, B. C. Foster; secretary, James H. Brooks; treasurer, William P. Wright; foreman, Firman

Young; assistant foreman, Harry Sheppard.

(Following items from Gazette of Sept. 13, 1899.)

All of the school children of Bristol have been the guests of Capt. F. G. Edwards, manager of the Upper Delaware River steamboats, during the past week. Each day several hundred children were given free excursions down the river, around the war ships of Admiral Sampson's squadron.

The following officers were elected at the annual meeting of the members of the Epworth League of the Methodist Church held last Friday evening: President, John G. Street; 1st vice president, Mrs. John K. Young; 2nd vice president, Miss Mary Lippincott; 3rd vice president, Doron Green; 4th vice president, Miss May Campbell; secretary, Miss Reba Atkins; treasurer, Clarence Fenton; musical director, Walter F. Hall; organist, Miss Laura King.

William Wall, an employee of the rolling mill, was struck in the face by several flying pieces of iron yesterday morning while attending to his duties and considerably injured. A piece of iron called a "breaker" which is used in the rolls to prevent injury to the machinery when the rolls become clogged, broken in four pieces, three of which struck Wall. The flying missiles struck with such force that the man was knocked down.

The Bristol Rolling Mills, which recently resumed operations, has been sold to a corporation with a capital of half a million dollars. The new concern which took possession of the works last Monday, is the Consolidated Iron & Steel Co. The President of the company is

Approve Four-Day Week At Morrisville Rubber Co.

MORRISVILLE, Apr. 4—A four-day work week for employees of the Morrisville Vulcanized Rubber andastics Co. was the unanimous decision of Local 123, United Rubber Workers (CIO), at a membership meeting Friday night.

The proposal of a shortened work week until May 2 only, originally presented by union members, was accepted by company officials at a meeting of union and company officials last week. On March 29 the company had effected an indefinite four-day week.

The new plan provides for a voting taken on a five-day week, with layoffs based on seniority. If the curtailment continues through May 2.

A decrease in orders was the reason given by the company for their proposal of a Friday work week. Union members voted against the stoppage 137 to 75 on March 24.

Nicholas J. Jammal, works manager, then announced company officials' decision in favor of the short week.

Thirty layoffs were made under the program, with the provision being made that those released would be recalled with a return of normal business.

Company officials had suggested a four-day week to avoid the release of employees.

You Can't Satisfy a Road Hog!

BIG tractor-semi-trailer trucks are the hogs of the highways. They've been getting bigger and heavier year by year.

They'll be still heavier if House Bill 560, now before Pennsylvania's State Senate, becomes law.

BIG-truck operators behind this bill want to add another 7½ tons to the weight of these monster vehicles...the old story...a few more tons every year.

YOU are the victim.

YOU pay the taxes to fix the roads that are broken by these terrifying loads.

YOU pay for the thousands of bridges broken and weakened every year by BIG trucks.

YOU own the pleasure car and the reasonable-size commercial vehicle that is crowded off the roads. YOU have to drag along behind these iron curtains on hills.

Residents of Townships are now over-burdened with real estate taxes to repair bridges and highways. Increased BIG-truck weights will mean increased repair costs for YOU.

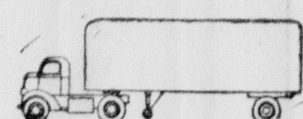

These are YOUR roads! YOUR bridges! And YOU CAN do something about it. YOU can let the State Senate know that YOU oppose the passage of House Bill 560. DO IT NOW.

IF HOUSE BILL 560 PASSES

The weight of this vehicle and load would increase from 22½ to 30 tons.

Text: Matthew 23:24 "Ye blind guides, which strain at a gnat, and swallow a camel."

Our Lord pronounced a woe upon the Pharisees because they were guilty of the sin of fault-finding. The sin of these fault-pickers was the sin of a wrong emphasis. If a gnat got into their wine they strained it out with the greatest of care. But if a camel got in they gulped him down, head, humps, hoofs and hair. In their critical search for flaws in others they were blind to their own faults.

What is your sin? What is mine? We cannot hope to stand uncondemned before God if we neglect our own sins because we are too busy judging others.

HIGH SCHOOL V. TO PLAY ST. ANN'S IN POST-SEASON GAME

Bristol High will play a post-season basketball game tonight on the high school court as it meets St. Ann's A. A. The tilt will be a battle of two champions — Bristol High winning the Lower Bucks County school title, while St. Ann's captured the championship of the Bristol Basketball League.

The game is a benefit affair for the high school athletes on the football and basketball teams and the receipts will be used to purchase awards for the players who gained a tie with Bensalem in the football league and won the basketball crown.

In the preliminary game, starting at 7:30 o'clock, the Falls Alumni team, who was eliminated by St. Ann's in the Bristol League playoffs, will play the fast-going Carver Center team, of Trenton. Carver Center has won 18 straight games and its star is "Jim" Sottile who played this season with Franklin in the Bristol League. Carver also holds two wins over the Bordentown Manual Training School.

Cocher Jerry Bloom, of the Warriors, intends to use only seniors in his lineup against the "Saints." That means that "Jim" Sottile and "Kam" Konefal will start at forwards. "Ducky" DeLong will jump center, with "Jim" Marshall and Bob Bowen being the guards. In addition to this quintet, both high school coaches, Bloom, and Harry McClister, will be in action directing the plays. Bloom has rounded himself into the condition that made him a court star at Lock Haven State Teachers College and with several professional teams in the western part of Pennsylvania.

"Jim" Sottile is the player that the St. Ann's team will guard closely. In a game against the League All Stars last week, Sottile garnered 32 points.

It is most likely that Manager Fred Barbetta, of the "Saints," will see "Kenny" Stoll to guard Sottile, and at times switch Annie Malloy to the defensive position. Wilbur VanLenten will be at the pivot position for the League champions, with Joe Natale and "Rabbit" Palumbo being in the back court positions. For reserves, there will be Manager Barbetta, Joe Sallustio, Gene Barbetta, and "Kenny" Martin. The latter dropped in the deciding point in that heart-breaking game with Profy's on Thursday night.

Bristol High finished its regular season in a tie with Morrisville for first place in the Lower Bucks County League. The Warriors went on to beat Morrisville in a playoff. In the opening round of the PIAA tournament, Bristol wallowed in the district semi-final by Radnor.

St. Ann's finished the regular season in a tie with Fifth Ward for second place. The Warriors then beat the "Saints" for second spot. In the quarter-finals, St. Ann's beat Franklin and in the semi-finals won over Falls Alumni. The Purple and Gold triumphed twice in succession over Profy's to win the crown.

During the course of the season, no team in the circuit beat St. Ann's while the three soldiers from Fort Monmouth were in the lineup. Those three make up a fine combination with the trio having a vast knowledge of the court game. Malloy is from Long Island City where he starred at a high school. Stoll was picked as All-State forward in North Dakota, playing with Valley View High School. Stoll has been offered four college scholarships in basketball and also a football scholarship. VanLenten, a lieutenant in the army, graduated from Bristol High and later starred at

Penn State. He is also a football and baseball player.

The largest crowd of the season is expected to be on hand to witness the final game of the court season; a good high school team against a strong Bristol League five.

BLOOM ISSUES CALL FOR HIGH SCHOOL NINE

Cocher Jerry Bloom is issuing his first call for baseball candidates this afternoon. The Warriors open their season against Palmyra High on Tuesday afternoon, April 12th, on Memorial Park diamond.

Cocher Harry McClister has his trackmen limbering up daily on the cinder oval at the high school. McClister's track team will appear in the Penn Relays on April 29th.

Missionary to Kentucky Shares Her Experiences

HULMEVILLE, Apr. 4—Life of a missionary in "bloody" Breathitt County, Kentucky, was recounted in some detail last evening when Mrs. Kathryn Arnett, of Guage, Ky., spoke in Neshaminy Methodist Church.

Mrs. Arnett, a native of that southern state, and her daughter, Shirley, are house guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Fetters, of Penndel. Mrs. Arnett, who did not start to school until she reached her 16th birthday anniversary, chose after graduating from the Bible Institute of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, to return to the mountains of Kentucky and serve people of her own state.

Informing that her mission work is carried on under no church or mission board, the speaker said, "I'm glad of it in a way, for it makes me depend more upon God." She told how God has supplied the means to carry on the work throughout the past 17 years.

Prior to the time residents of a mountain creek section were induced to set their fences back from the creek so that a road might be built along the water-way, it was necessary for her to cross and recross the one creek 13 times to reach the Sunday School, Mrs. Arnett stated.

"Until recent years Christmas was celebrated by means of a shooting match, with a rooster as the target," she informed. "They didn't know what Christmas meant until the Sunday School was started in that section. Now Christmas has a real meaning to those people." She added how much a gift of only a pair of cotton hosiery means to a woman back in the hills at the Yuletide, or a doll or harmonica for a child.

"A missionary in that region has many duties. He or she must take the people to the doctor or aid them themselves, serve as nurse, preacher, photo-rather, and build the coffee and lime them. Before the road was built along our creek we traveled up and down the banks and across the stream by mule-back, horse-back or walked. Now we can go by truck, and the children can use the bus to school, even though it often breaks down."

Music was provided by: Miss Clara Illick, piano; Mrs. George Fetters, organ; "Betty" Burns, electric Hawaiian guitar; with Mr. Fetters leading the song service. The Rev. John C. Kulp, pastor, was in charge of the service.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

One of the applications received by Doylestown Borough Board of Adjustment on Thursday evening was for Bucks County Inn to grade and finish the lot in the rear of the hotel for use as a parking lot. The board reserved its decision until it has consulted with the borough solicitors.

The Inn, it was announced, hopes to maintain two parking lots, both with attendants.

Nancy Solley, Lacey Park, and William Marks, of Southampton, played the romantic leads, and Gay Graham, Lacey Park, supplied the comedy relief in the Southampton-Warminster high school opera, "Tune In", presented in the school auditorium on Thursday.

In supporting roles were Joseph Torak, Charles Freeburger, Warren Norden, Augustus Clayton, Richard Jackiewicz, William Hamilton, Shirley Loughhead and Brice Todd, a trio consisting of Christy Zerbe, Carol Chandee and "Betty" Kresge, and a chorus of 30 voices.

Preparations are being made by the junior class of Buckingham high school to take a trip to Phila., where the young people will visit Carpenter's Hall, Edgar Allen Poe's home and other points of interest. The trip, which will be taken this week, will be under the supervision of Miss Elizabeth Berger, a member of the faculty.

A POLITICAL SPEECH

Winston Churchill will be recorded in history as one of the ablest and most eloquent statesmen of this generation.

But the talk which he made at Boston last Thursday, and which was both broadcast and televised, will never rank as one of his great addresses. It had many fine phrases, numerous quotable lines. But in the last analysis, it was simply a political speech, devoid of statesmanship, weasel-ideaed if not weasel-worded.

Under the purple patches of rhetorical showmanship, Mr. Churchill presented shabby compromises with everything he has ever stood for, and with most of the principles which made the British Empire for centuries the greatest of the world powers.

The speech was the opening gun of the so-called Conservative Party to try to recapture control of Great Britain from the Labor Party Socialists.

Sometime within the next twelve months or so, at a date which will be named to suit the strategy of the Socialists, the British people will be called upon to vote on the question of which party shall lead the nation for the next five years.

Four years ago, these same British people threw out the great leader who had inspired them to fight off defeat in the war. They threw out Churchill and his conservatives the moment the war was over, and turned themselves over to the Socialists.

That was the right of the free electorate of that great fountainhead of human freedom, the English race who invented the Magna Carta.

Churchill went down fighting for what he believed in. At the end of the election, his head was bloody but unbowed. He had "stood up."

Echoing behind him were phrases setting forth his beliefs—phrases that will ring in men's ears for generations to come. He left a legacy of eloquence and impassioned utterances. "Blood, sweat, toil and tears." "I do not propose to preside at the dismemberment of the British Empire."

It is one of the novelties of contemporary politics that Mr. Churchill, seeking a return of himself and his party to power,

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan (Distributed by International News Service)

There will be eclipses of the sun and moon this month but we'll be too busy watching John L. Lewis to look up.

How do we know we're not potential material for District 50 if we don't keep our eyes at Lewis-level?

In fact when the sun and moon are blacked out he's apt to hand a miner's lamp and dues card to any citizen overheard saying "it's as dark as a coal mine."

You know Mr. Lewis is on the move again toward his goal of any enlarged personal labor empire and this time he hopes to make it by cab.

LOVELIEST OF TREES

The name of Washington, the hatchet and the blossoming cherry tree will never be dissociated in American lore. Whether young Master Washington ever told a lie or not (who would put it past him that a cherry tree fell to his hatchet?) the tale as Parson Weems tells it will always be remembered.

And the District of Columbia's flowering ranks of Japanese cherry trees, blooming anew this spring, are being needed into comparable longevity by doses of a petal-saving hormone.

These trees have had a lively history. Two thousand of them were presented in 1909 by the people of Japan to the people of the United States. When fungus and insects made it necessary to destroy the first shipment in 1909, the situation had all the makings of an international incident.

But the Japanese dignitary who received the report from a nervous U. S. Embassy official took the blow smilingly. "Oh," he said, "I believe your first President set the example of destroying cherry trees!"

Japan replaced her original gift of 2,000 with 3,000 more trees, all in the best of health. This confirmed the general American feeling that Japan was a nation of friendly flower-lovers, quaint but lovable. The feeling still prevailed, more or less, in 1938 during the "China incident," when Washington clubwomen shackled themselves to the trees to keep some of them from being uprooted to landscape the site of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial.

Washington's second hatchet incident came later. Three days after Pearl Harbor a few patriots gave vent to their changed feelings toward Japan by felling some of the bare-boughed trees. Now the hatchets are buried again, and the "Loveliest of trees, the cherry now, is hung with bloom along the bough" in the nation's capital.

CHICKEN-OF-TOMORROW

It isn't only the aircraft makers who find it necessary to start designing new planes years in advance of actual production. Re-tooling, if that is the word for it, is getting under way for the Chicken-of-Tomorrow of 1951.

This year the states will hold their individual contests of breeders. Next year the regional contests will carry the competition another step forward. In 1951, somewhere in the United States, a national winner will be determined—embodying even more deluxe features, if possible, than the winner selected in the 1948 national finals in Delaware last summer.

Prof. S. E. Tomhave, head of the department of animal and poultry industry at the University of Delaware, sets forth the goal of the three-year plan: "The new bird, to grow faster, with still more meat, is being scientifically redesigned—in the same fashion that science has converted cattle, hogs and other food animals."

The fowl that won the contest last year was a Cornish-New Hampshire cross.

A Political Speech

should come to the United States for the purposes of opening his campaign. The dealings of political hands across the sea are mysterious. There seems no doubt at all that the late Harry Hopkins, protégé of President Roosevelt, connived with the British Labor Party leadership for the overthrow of Churchill in the first place. Now Churchill makes his key-note address in the come-back drive at Boston—far outside the British dominions.

The compromises which Churchill made in his talk are possibly beyond the quick understanding of those who have not followed British politics.

His greatest compromise is with the "take it easy" philosophy of the Socialists in Great Britain—with the concept that it being spread so industriously there and elsewhere, that it is possible for mankind to live comfortably with no more exertion than voting himself a check from the government.

Time was when Churchill, who set forth the price of victory in war as "blood, sweat, toil and tears," openly defended the age-old gospel that "by the sweat of thy brow shall thou earn thy bread." Time was when Churchill scoffed at the "get rich quick" theories of Socialism.

What says he now? His tune has changed. These theories are too appealing for him to be willing longer to fight. Instead of the eloquent virtrio he formerly poured out on these fallacies, these doctrines now are described as "the age of the common man." He no longer opposes them—instead, he quarrels with the Socialists on the proposition that he (and Lloyd George) helped invent them!

This is a surrender of principle unworthy of the name of statesmanship. It's not even good politics. If the British people still want Socialism, if they are willing to accept closing vistas and narrowing horizons, to take starvation diet and dwindling opportunities and growing infringements on their personal freedom, in return for government doles—then they know where to get them.

Why should they turn to Churchill to get just what they already are receiving from the Labor Socialists?

The American people, from time to time in the last sixteen years, have had offered to them a watered down New Deal under a Republican label, in competition with the Democratic New Deal. But they've never "bitten." The "me too" philosophy in the fringe of the Republican party has scored no victories. The successes have been by Republicans who ran on Republicanism.

Can anyone think that the British Conservatives have a ghost of a show to defeat Socialism by becoming Socialists? Yet that is the tack which Churchill has taken.

There is another great compromise involved which does still less credit to Churchill, either as politician or statesman. That is his implied indorsement of the pending Marshall Plan loan, a third or so of which will go to England.

Now, the fact is—and of course Churchill knows it; he has said as much in the past—that the American contributions to Great Britain are the factor which has kept Socialism in England from falling under its own weight long before this.

Twice have these American money gifts permitted the British Socialists to reduce taxes on their subjects—to eliminate, in fact, hundreds of thousands of voters from any need to pay taxes. Twice have these dollar-contributions allowed the Socialists to vastly extend the amount of "give-away" service of the government to the voting masses—first, the full completion of the Beveridge Plan, and second, the launching of "free medicine."

The third gift, now before Congress, will give the British Socialists a chance to put a new tax cut in effect, to enlarge their volume of checks being handed out to voters, perhaps to confiscate the steel industry, and to perform other vote-getting miracles—just before the approaching election.

As a politician, Churchill knows perfectly well that these American "loans" are the war chest with which the Labor Socialists are keeping themselves in power. As a statesman, he knows also that Great Britain, if it re-elects the Socialists one more time, may forever sign the doom of the British people to serfdom and poverty.

Yet the plain facts appear to be that he lacks the nerve to stand boldly on the facts and the truth. He does not say frankly that the American dollar-gifts are the worst disservice the British people ever had. He appears to have concluded that it would be inexpedient to speak against the loan. Therefore, by indirection, he speaks for it.

He glosses this compromise over with the unsupported statement that Russia would have overrun Europe and bombarded London long before this, except for fear of America's atomic bomb. This is a sensational piece of demagoguery, under the circumstances, apparently presented solely for the purpose of glossing over his own ambiguous views.

Of the real position of England in today's world, Churchill, once the greatest of realists, has not a realistic word to say.

His England is a nation lulled into indolence and a false sense of security in an insecure world; a nation whose people have been put to sleep by the comfortable theory that the labor Socialists will care for them, no matter how little exertion they put into taking care of themselves.

His people are producing less, per capita, and wasting more, per capita, than any supposedly civilized race in history. Most precious of what they are wasting is time. The clock and calendar are running against them. Drawn off the path by the follies of Socialism, they are falling behind in the race.

The Empire has been dismembered—and Churchill fails to mention the fact. Once the British were the great leaders of the earth. They fully recognized their part in carrying "the white man's burden."

But they have backed out of Greece, walked out of India, pulled out of Egypt, given up in China, dropped most of their obligations in Europe, left it to Uncle Sam to protect their interests in the Far Eastern oil territory and in the Mediterranean.

Worse, they have thrown up the sponge largely in their own island. England may be said to be the part of the world where the concept was born that masses of people can rule themselves, that governments belong to the people and not the people to the governments. It is the birthplace of freedom, in the contemporary sense of the word.

Yet the first thing the British people did, after electing the Labor Socialists, was to allow them to vote what amounts to a five-year dictatorship. The converse is that the British people let themselves be voted into five years of serfdom.

Liberties that have been more than a thousand years in the creating have been tossed negligently aside by the British people. Yet Churchill, once proud exponent of British freedom, now finds not a word to mourn their passing!

For the least worthy of all political motives—that of expediency—he lays down the proposition that he helped invent this atrocious version of streamlined feudalism now yoked upon the British neck!

Even if Churchill had a chance to be successful in his campaign for return to power, one cannot help but wonder whether victory at such a price of surrender and compromise would be worth its cost!

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Sept. 7, 1899. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger

The Pennsylvania Railroad is putting in additional water troughs at South Bristol for the use of freight engines. When this work is completed much of the blocking of the streets at the railroad crossings will be obviated.

Ebenezer Lund has sold his house on Garden street to an employee of the new Bristol Iron and Steel Co. for $850.

The new business block erected on Mill street by William E. Doron is ready for occupancy.

Frederick Stuckert, who was lately admitted to the bar, will practice his profession in Bristol, his office being with John C. Stuckert on Mill street.

The fire company will take notice that if the plug at Cedar and Penn streets should be needed it can be found covered up with a luxuriant growth of weeds.

Harry Bunting has been made leader of the M. E. Church Choir. William R. Bradfield, who has acted in that capacity for over 29 years, has resigned.

At a meeting of the teachers and officers of St. Paul's Mission Sunday School, held last Sunday afternoon, William V. Leach was elected superintendent, H.T.W. Bickel, secretary; Harvey Hetherington, assistant secretary; Mrs. Elizabeth Bostwick, treasurer; and Thomas Minister, librarian.

At the regular monthly meeting of America Hose, Hook & Ladder Co., held on Tuesday evening, the following nominations were made: President, B. C. Foster; secretary, James H. Brooks; treasurer, William P. Wright; foreman, Firman

Young; assistant foreman, Harry Sheppard.

(Following items from Gazette of Sept. 14, 1899.)

All of the school children of Bristol have been the guests of Capt. F. G. Edwards, manager of the Upper Delaware River steamboats, during the past week. Each day several hundred children were given free excursions down the river, around the war ships of Admiral Sampson's squadron.

The following officers were elected at the annual meeting of the members of the Epworth League of the Methodist Church held last Friday evening: President, John G. Street; 1st vice president, Mrs. John K. Young, 2nd vice president, Miss Mary Lippincott; 3rd vice president, Doron Green; 4th vice president, Miss May Campbell; secretary, Miss Reba Atkins; treasurer, Clarence Fenton; musical director, Walter F. Hall; organist, Miss Laura King.

William Wall, an employee of the rolling mill, was struck in the face by several flying pieces of iron yesterday morning while attending to his duties and considerably injured. A piece of iron called a "breaker" which is used in the rolls to prevent injury to the machinery when the rolls become clogged, broken in four pieces, three of which struck Wall. The flying missiles struck with such force that the man was knocked down.

The Bristol Rolling Mills, which recently resumed operations, has been sold to a corporation with a capital of half a million dollars. The new concern which took possession of the works last Monday, is the Consolidated Iron & Steel Co. The President of the company is

Herbert K. Adams, of the firm of Adams & Keen, Philadelphia. The stock has been about all subscribed and it is intended to increase the capacity of the plant, which now turns out 50 tons of manufactured iron per day. A new furnace was erected and was started up on Monday. Another will be built shortly. By the erection of the additional heating furnaces proposed to be erected, the normal capacity of the mill should be from 60 to 75 tons per day of 24 hours.

Approve Four-Day Week At Morrisville Rubber Co.

MORRISVILLE, Apr. 4—A four-day week for employees of the Morrisville Vulcanized Rubber and Tires Co. was the unanimous decision of Local 123, United Rubber Workers (CIO), at a membership meeting Friday night. The proposal of a shortened work week until May 2 only, originally presented by union members, was accepted by company officials at a meeting of union and company representatives last week. On March 29 the company had effected an indefinite four-day week. The new plan provides for a voting taken on a five-day week. Layoffs based on seniority, if work curtailment continues through May 2. A decrease in orders was the reason given by the company for their proposal of a Friday work week. Union members voted against the stoppage 137 to 75 on March 24. Nicholas J. Jammal, works manager, then announced company officials' decision in favor of the short week. Thirty layoffs were made under a program, with the provision being made that those released would be recalled with a return of normal business. Company officials had suggested a four-day week to avoid the release of employees.

You Can't Satisfy a Road Hog!

BIG tractor-semi-trailer trucks are the hogs of the highways. They've been getting bigger and heavier year by year.

They'll be still heavier if House Bill 560, now before Pennsylvania's State Senate, becomes law.

BIG-truck operators behind this bill want to add another 7½ tons to the weight of these monster vehicles...the old story...a few more tons every year.

YOU are the victim.

YOU pay the taxes to fix the roads that are broken by these terrifying loads.

YOU pay for the thousands of bridges broken and weakened every year by BIG trucks.

YOU own the pleasure car and the reasonable-size commercial vehicle that is crowded off the roads. YOU have to drag along behind these iron curtains on hills.

Residents of Townships are now over-burdened with real estate taxes to repair bridges and highways. Increased BIG-truck weights will mean increased repair costs for YOU.

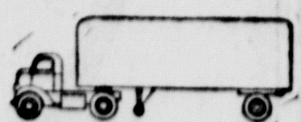

These are YOUR roads! YOUR bridges! And YOU CAN do something about it. YOU can let the State Senate know that YOU oppose the passage of House Bill 560. DO IT NOW.

IF HOUSE BILL 560 PASSES

The weight of this vehicle and load would increase from 22½ to 30 tons.

The weight of this vehicle and load would increase from 22½ to 24 tons.

Text: Matthew 23:24 "Ye blind guides, which strain at a gnat, and swallow a camel."

Our Lord pronounced a woe upon the Pharisees because they were guilty of the sin of fault-finding. The sin of these fault-pickers was the sin of a wrong emphasis. If a gnat got into their wine they strained it out with the greatest of care. But if a camel got in they gulped him down, head, humps, hoofs and hair. In their critical search for flaws in others they were blind to their own faults.

What is your sin? What is mine? We cannot hope to stand uncondemned before God if we neglect our own sins because we are too busy judging others.

HIGH SCHOOL V. TO PLAY ST. ANN'S IN POST-SEASON GAME

Bristol High will play a post-season basketball game tonight on the high school court as it meets St. Ann's A. A. The tilt will be a battle of two champions — Bristol High winning the Lower Bucks County school title, while St. Ann's captured the championship of the Bristol Basketball League.

The game is a benefit affair for the high school athletes on the football and basketball teams and the receipts will be used to purchase awards for the players who gained a tie with Bensalem in the football league and won the basketball crown.

In the preliminary game, starting at 7:30 o'clock, the Falls Alumni team, who was eliminated by St. Ann's in the Bristol League playoffs, will play the fast-going Carver Center team, of Trenton. Carver Center has won 18 straight games and its star is "Jim" Ransome who played this season with Franklin in the Bristol League. Carver also holds two wins over the Bordentown Manual Training School.

Coach Jerry Bloom, of the Warriors, intends to use only seniors in his lineup against the "Saints." That means that "Jim" Sottile and "Kam" Koufal will start at forwards. "Ducky" DeLong will jump center, with "Jim" Marshall and Bob Bowen being the guards. In addition to this quintet, both high school coaches, Bloom, and Harry McClister, will be in action directing the plays. Bloom has rounded himself into the condition that made him a court star at Lock Haven State Teachers College and with several professional teams in the western part of Pennsylvania.

"Jim" Sottile is the player that the St. Ann's team will guard closely. In a game against the League All Stars last week, Sottile garnered 32 points.

It is most likely that Manager Fred Barbetta, of the "Saints," will use "Kenny" Stoll to guard Sottile, and at times switch Arnie Malloy to the defensive position. Wilbur VanLenten will be at the pivot position for the League champions, with Joe Natale and "Rabbit" Palumbo being in the back court positions. For reserves, there will be Manager Barbetta, Joe Sallustio, Gene Barbetta, and "Kenny" Martin. The latter dropped in the deciding point in that heart-breaking game with Profy's on Thursday night.

Bristol High finished its regular season in a tie with Morrisville for first place in the Lower Bucks County League. The Warriors went on to beat Morrisville in a playoff. In the opening round of the PIAA tournament, Bristol walloped Conshohocken but were eliminated in the district semi-final by Radnor.

St. Ann's finished the regular season in a tie with Fifth Ward for second place. The Warders then beat the "Saints" for second spot. In the quarter-finals, St. Ann's beat Franklin and in the semi-finals won over Falls Alumni. The Purple and Gold triumphed twice in succession over Profy's to win the crown.

During the course of the season, no team in the circuit beat St. Ann's while the three soldiers from Fort Monmouth were in the lineup. These three make up a fine combination with the trio having a vast knowledge of the court game. Malloy is from Long Island City where he starred at a high school. Stoll was picked as All-State forward in North Dakota, playing with Valley View High School. Stoll has been offered four college scholarships in basketball and also a football scholarship. VanLenten, a lieutenant in the army, graduated from Bristol High and later starred at

Penn State. He is also a football and baseball player.

The largest crowd of the season is expected to be on hand to witness the final game of the court season: a good high school team against a strong Bristol League five.

BLOOM ISSUES CALL FOR HIGH SCHOOL NINE

Coach Jerry Bloom is issuing his first call for baseball candidates this afternoon. The Warriors open their season against Palmyra High on Tuesday afternoon, April 12th, on Memorial Park diamond.

Coach Harry McClister has his trackmen limbering up daily on the cinder oval at the high school. McClister's track team will appear in the Penn Relays on April 29th.

Missionary to Kentucky Shares Her Experiences

HULMEVILLE, Apr. 4.—Life of a missionary in "bloody" Breathitt County, Kentucky, was recounted in some detail last evening when Mrs. Kathryn Arnett, of Gauge, Ky., spoke in Neshaminy Methodist Church.

Mrs. Arnett, a native of that southern state, and her daughter, Shirley, are house guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Fellers, of Pennel. Mrs. Arnett, who did not start to school until she reached her 16th birthday anniversary, chose after graduating from the Bible Institute of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, to return to the mountains of Kentucky and serve people of her own state.

Informing that her mission work is carried on under no church or mission board, the speaker said, "I'm glad of it in a way, for it makes me depend more upon God." She told how God has supplied the means to carry on the work throughout the past 17 years.

Prior to the time residents of a mountain creek section were induced to set their fences back from the creek so that a road might be built along the water-way, it was necessary for her to cross and recross the one creek 13 times to reach the Sunday School, Mrs. Arnett stated.

"Until recent years Christmas was celebrated by means of a shooting match, with a rooster as the target," she informed. "They didn't know what Christmas meant until the Sunday School was started in that section. Now Christmas has a real meaning to those people." She added how much a gift of only a pair of cotton hosiery means to a woman back in the hills at the Yuletide, or a doll or harmonica for a child.

"A missionary in that region has many duties. He or she must take the people to the doctor or aid them themselves, serve as nurse, preacher, photo-rather, and build the coffins and line them. Before the road was built along our creek we travelled up and down the banks and across the stream by mule-back, horse-back or walked. Now we can go by truck, and the children can use the bus to school, even though it often breaks down."

Music was provided by: Miss Clara Blicke, piano; Mrs. George Fellers, organ; "Betty" Burns, electric Hawaiian guitar; with Mr. Fellers leading the song service. The Rev. John C. Kulp, pastor, was in charge of the service.
